the execution of the laws.

They have abolished slavery in the District of Columbia, which our fathers found there and left there, and have appropriated out of an exhausted credit one million of dollars to pay for a few negroes, to add to our popula tion so many more of an undesirable class.

They have proposed to buy the slaves other States, without the consent of their owners, and when the credit of the Govern ment is almost fifty per cent. discount.

In order to accomplish the purpose of the abolition of slavery, they have passed a coufiscation bill, which frees the slaves of all guilty of treason; frees the slaves of all who incite men to rebellion or give aid and core fort; frees the slaves of all who have not now rebels wherever the army goes.

That was not deemed sufficient, and the thority as Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy, to emancipate all the slaves in the seceded States. To consecrate this unconstitutional and party purpose, they now propose to arm the negro to help to subjugate his man ter, and thus form an alliance with the servile race against the white man of the South.

This is a purely party programme. As means to put down the rebellion, it is absurd. It unites the enemies of the Government and divides its friends. It is a violation of the plighted faith of the Administration and its party to us and other patriotic men of this

Upon such a programme, carried out by force, is not a restoration of the Union a sim ple impossibility? We believe it is, and that sents no ground upon which a Union man in the South can stand. He is compelled to fight the top of the taliest oak with their long rifles, and is ambuscading the rebel cavalry at all points, and wiping out whole squads of them property is taken. It is a policy to destroy, not to save. But the party in plete the Stevens Battery within nine months power, with the President at its head, has drifted away from the position of Kentucky and from the position they held at the start. The means of preserving the Union are now the question, and preserving the Constitution along with it. It is assumed by the President and his party that slavery is the cause and destroyed to accomplish the end. They are now acting on the principle that all is legitimate that, in the judgment of the President, may effect the purpose.

WORDS TO BE PONDERED OVER .- "War." wrote the great Edmund Burke, "never leaves where it found a nation. It is never to be en tered into without mature deliberation; not a deliberation lengthened out into a perplexing indecision, but a deliberation leading to sure and fixed judgment. When so taken up. it is not to be abandoned without reason as valid, as fully and extensively considered. Peace may be made as unadvisedly as war. Nothing is so rash as fear; and the counsels of pusillanimity very rarely put off, whilst they are always sure to aggravate, the evils from which they would fly.

Judge Paine further declares that he should consider the establishment of the doctrine that the President possesses illimitable power people, they holding a revisory power over both State and Federal Constitutions in the mode therein prescribed. Under such Governments, State and National, we have lived for nearly eighty years, a free, independent and happy people. To these governments we owe our allegiance and loyalty, which consists in obcdience to the Federal and State Consti-tutions and the laws legally enacted under them. We owe no allegiance to him that executes or administers the laws. He is eatibled the question now under consideration: have the laws been faithfully executed and admin-istered by the President of the United States, or has the Federal Constitution—the great magna charta of our liberties-been vie by him whose sworn duty it is to support the Constitution and faithfully execute the laws?

Mr. Chairman, let me briefly refer to the declarations of the President at the time and shortly after he was inaugurated, and see if he has not violated the Constitution as he himself understands it, and acted in bad faith towards those who have furnished men and money with a profusion amounting almost to prodigality, to suppress the rebellion and restore the Union, with all the rights and equality of the several States unimpaired, as originally avowed by him and the Congress to be the objects of the war, By reference to the declarations of the President and the Congress of the nation, the most unwilling mind is forced to the conclusion that the President has not only acted in bad faith, but that he has been guilty of the most palpable violations of the Constitution, in issuing his extraordinary proclamations, and has usurped powers to himself dangerous to the liveries of the people-such powers if not has usurped powers to himself dangerous to the lineries of the people—such powers, if not arrested, as bid fair to overthrow our Republican form of Government, and bring us ander military rule—the most intolerable of all Governments. The President, in his inau-gural address, as if to remove all doubts the people in the slave States might have as to his nature action as to slavery, and to indicate to the country his understanding of his con stitutional powers, and the course he intended to pursue on that subject, declared that "He had no purpose directly or indirectly to lotterfere with the institution of slavery in the States where it exists; that he believed he had no lawful right to do so and he had no inclination to do so."

In his special message to the called session of Congress he reiterates in substance the same sentiments. He was then as much the Commander-in-Chief of the Army a he is now, and all the war powers that he has nad then attached and belonged to him, as fully as they had at the time he issued these proclama-tions, the constitutionality of which is now the subject of discussion, except such powers as may have since been conferred upon him by Congress, and Congress beupon him by Congress, and Congress has no power to corfer such powers, nor, in fact, does he claim to have desire, them from Congress, but claims to exercise them by virtue of his office as Commander-in-Chief of the army and navy. There is no war rant in the Constitution for the exercise of such a power. Whence does he derive this such power there exists. Then, if I am right in this, and I certainly think I am, these proc-lamations are assumptions of power by the President, the exercise of which has aroused conclusions arrived at are briefly stated as the conservative people everywhere, and where follows:

1. The Government of the United States is against them, to arrest them before they groy into giant proportions, and override the civil authorities and s.p the very foundation of the Government, to preserve which we are engaged in a most terrible war with the States in rebellion.

But, sir, the President, shortly after his special message, thought it proper to define his constitutional powers and the policy he intended to pursue, in prosecuting the war, to foreign nations, as well as to the American pe pe; and in his correspondence, through his secretary, Mr. Seward, to Mr. Dayton, our Minister at Paris, among other things of like import, he said:

import, he said:
'It is hardly necessary to add to this incontestable, statement, the further fact that the new President, as well as the citizens through whose suffrage he has come into the administration, has always repudiated all designs whatever and whenever imputed to him and them of disturbing the system of slavery as it exists under the Constitution and law. The case, however, would not be fully presented if I were to omit to say any such efforts on his part would be meconstitutional, and all of his actions in that direction would be prevented by the Judiciary, even though they were as sented to by Congress and the people."

Mr. Chairman, in the lace of such a declaration that any act of his interfering with sinvery party, and who voted for it, said, in the debate upon the bill to admit it as a State, he would not stultify himself by saying it was constitutional, thereby admitting before the world that he was voting for an act which was in violation of the Consultation he had in the presence of Congress and his God taken a selenn of the support.

"No nice extreme a true Italian knows; Bid him go to hell, to hell he goes."

Mr. Chairman, I believe—in fact, I know, so far as'l have heard an expression of opinion—that trave mounths in the hall connected the consultant of the majority report proposing a National Convention, and a meeting of consultant of the support.

Bid him go to hell, to hell he goes."

Mr. Chairman, I believe—in fact, I know, so far as! I have heard an expression of opinion—that every member in this hall concurs in the opinion that the Precident and dominant party have violated the Constitution in the acts I have briefly alluded to, which acts have been done since the adjournment of our last sitting; and this General Assembly should express an opinion upon those acts in the exercise of a se acts in the exercise of a right the people have to discuss the acts of their public servants. Hence I have spoken plainly what I believe to be true of those proclamations, but in no captious spirit, I hope; and I desire, in the resolutions we shall adopt, to give a frank but respectful expression of opinion. The time alloted me will not admlt of my discussing the resolutions before the committee in detail. I will here say I prefer the majority report, with some amendments which I hope will be made in the wording of the address. I desire, at the proper time, if not done by the gentleman from J. fferson (Mr. Harney) to offer the third resolution in the Harney), to offer the third resolution in the series reported by him some days ago, which is as follows:

*Resolved, That Kentucky, n a spirit of loyalty which has characterized her from the beginning of her history, will aid the General Government in a war to enforce the Constitution and restore the Union, but will not aid in a war upon the national Constitution and in a war upon the national Constitution and against her own domestic institutions."

Ans, I will go further and say in the larguage of the re-olution offered in the Senate by Senator Fisk, "that Kentneky will not accept emancipation, compensated or otherwise; that she will neither ask her sister slave States to submit to such a policy, nor said in enforcing it upon them." But here I may be asked, What are you going to do—give up your Government? I answer, No, nor slavery either. There is no incompatibility

May I be permitted to ask him what change has come over the spirit of his dram that he will not now say that he will not aid in doing that which he said on the 20th of September, 186t, should not be done?

At the time we passed this resolution the rule of conduct to be observed in the prosecution of this war had been solemnly declared in July, only about two months before, by almost a unanimous vote of Congress, by the passage of the Crittenden resolutions, in which it is declared passage of the Crittenden resolutions, in which it is declared

"That Congress, banishing all feeling of mere passion or resentment, will recollect its duty to the whole country—that this war is not waged upon our part in any spirit of oppression nor for any purpose of conquest or subjugation, ner purpose of overthrowing or interfering with the rights or established institutions in those States; but to defend and maintain the supremacy of the Constitution dutions in those States; but to defend and maintain the supremacy of the Constitution, and to preserve the Union, with all the dignity, equality and rights of the several States unimpaired; that as soon as these objects are accomplished the war ought to case."

And here is a coincidence worthy of our serious considerative. The Crittenden resolutions, passed a few days after the terrible battle of Manassas, which resulted so disastron-ly to our arms, at a time when the Capital

The Evansville Journal of the 3d conaies the following in regard to affairs on Green river:

As soon as the news of the capture of the Hetty Gilmore, on Green river, by the guer-nillas, reached headquarters at Henderson, pillas, reached headquarters at Henderson, Col. Foster at once put troops in motion to ook after them. He immediately cume to this city and pressed into service the D. B. Campbell, which had just arrived from South Carrollton or Roches-

er. Captain Combs, who was temporarily in Captain Combs, who was temporarily in command of the Campbell, threw all obstacles in the way of getting the Campbell off that he possibly could, but Col. Foster is not easily thwarted in carrying out his plans. He gave Capt. Combs till 10 P. M. on Thursday to get ready. The crew of the boat had slipped off, but Col. Foster gathered up a new crew, pressing into the service several chizens of African descent, and placing over them a guard obtained from headquarters in this city. Notwithstanding the many difficulties in the way, the Campbelt was all ready at ten o'clock.

sent from Henderson, and preceded to Wood-bury. Not a rebel was found on the way, and it was learned that the fifteen rebels who cap-tured and parolled the Gilmore had bastened to leave the country, but are being vigorously hunted down by the Twelfth and Eighth Kentucky cavalry. They were mere stragglers from Morgan's band of horse-thieves, who had sneaked into that country to recuperate, and in which these rebels were harbored, for com-pensation for the floverament property de-stroyed, and will take vigorous measures to sc-cure the quiet and safe navigation of Green river.

Col. Foster, fluding the game had fled, returned to Rumsey, and, with the Campbell, towed out the Ollie Sullivan, arriving here on Sunday at noon. The Oilie Sallivan, as we have before stated, collapsed her larboard flue, and will require a new boiler.

An investigation into the facts attending the capture of the Gilmore will probably be ordered.

ANECDOTE OF BUTLER.—And this reminds me of a story u ld of Gen. Butler. "I will not go back to New Orleans," says the General, "unless I can have more troops. Why can't you give me more?" "We haven't them to give," replies Mr. Lincolu. "Then why don't you raise more—put the draft upon New York! raise that forty thousand wno should have been raised in that State last fall!" "Mr. Seymour says it will not do to draft in New York, answers Lincolv. "Then I would draft Seymout!" asserts Butler. I will not vouch for the truth of this story, but I have heard it the truth of this story, but I have heard it from lips that rarely tell anything that is not true, and it sounds very like Butler, and I must confess not unlike Mr. Lincoln.

[Washington Cor. Springfield Republican. DISGRACEFUL CONDUCT .- We learn, and DIGRACEFUL CO-DCCT.—We learn, and have no doubt of the truth of the statement, that on Thursday night the First Pennsylvania Reserve regiment went on picket duty in the vicinity of Union Mills, and, instead of performing it, the whole regiment went to sleep. The result is, they were disarmed this forenoon, by orders from the commander of this military department, and the officer in command of the regiment at the time has also been ordered.

AMERICAN WATCHES FOR SOLDIERS

AT REDUCED PRICES.

American Watches for Americans

THE AMERICAN WATCH COMPANY give notice that they have lately issued a new sty'e of Watch, expressly de signed for Soldiers and others who desire a good watch at a moderate price. These watches are intended to displace the worthless, cheap wat hes of British and Swiss manufacture with which the country is flooded. and which were never expected to keep time when they were made, being refuse manufactures sent to this country because unsa'able at home and used here only for Jockeying and swindling purposes.

We offer to sell our Watch, which is of THE MOST SUB STANFIAL MANUFACTURE, AN ACCURATE AND DURABLE TIMEREEPER, and in Sterling Silver cases, Hunting pat tern, at as low a price as is asked for the trashy Ancara and Laprage of foreign make already referred to We have named the new series of Watches, WILLIAM ELLERY Roston, Mass, which nome will be found on the plate of every watch of this manufacture, and is one of our trademarks

Sold by all respectable Watch Dealers in the loyal Particulars of the Cruise.

Perils and Incidents of the Escape.

Young's Point, La, Feb. 22.

Between the darkness and dawn of the past night, there arrived at the shore opposite, the Era No. 5, an entire stranger in these waters. She bears a greater portion of the crew of the Queen of the West, whose deeds of daring have filled the world. So magnificent and glorious a career, has, it seems, had a painful and unexpected close. She has been captured, and is, at this moment, in the hands of the rebels. The strange graft is all that we have left in return.

From one of the survivors, we learn the following important particulars, the details of which your other correspondents have no doubt furnished:

The last cruise of the Queen was one designed for the interruption and capture of a number of steamers, which have, of late, been plying on the Red river, its tributaries and out ets, supplying the Port Hudson Garrison with beef and corn. As that port was almost exclusively dependent upon the river for its subsistence, the importance of this step can hardly be everrated.

The Open of the West, so famous in the (Special Correspondence of the Republican.)

hardly be everrated.

The Queen of the West, so famous in the river history of the war in the West, was designed to attack hostile vessels. Her weapons were her powerful engines and her iron clad beak. Some alterations have recently been made to protect her boilers against shot, and a heavier gun mounted on her deck torward. Her legitimate function was almost at an end. She was, in accordance with the anxiety of her commanders, to be put to some sort of service as cruiser. In this service she was lost. The vessel which had passed twice through the dery ordeal of the Western Gibralter; led off in the tragical dance of death at Memphis, with her consort the Monarch she who bearded the Arkansas in her lair, the feremost in all adventures of peril and glory

-has been vanquished by an insignificant little battery in the wilds of West Louisians.

Such are the sports of fortune, and such are the chances of war. A mysterious fatality seems to attend the prominent fighting ves-sels on both sides during this war. The Queen, attended by a little scow ferry-boat De Soto, passed from the lower end of the new caral on the night of the 10th, silent-ly and slowly as if drifting out into the dark Styx. Not a sainte nor a musket greeted her from the bluffs at Warrenton, which greatly amazed all on board as well as those on shore who bid her farewell. Next day saw them at Natchez—the next night at the mouth of Red

Natchez—the next night at the mouth of Red River without interruption.

They ascended the Red River, turned into the Atchafayala by Turnbull's Island, proceeded down forty miles, cuptured and destroyed a train destined for Bayou Sara in charge of negroes. Returning, they were fired upon by guerrillas near the mouth, for which they landed and destroyed the two adjacent plantations. The 13th, saw them slowly wending up Red River, peeping into each bayou and shute as they passed. They had not gone far before they espied a steamer coming round the bend towards them.

A gun was now shotted and a ball sent A gun was now shotted and a ball sen A gun was now snotted and a ball sent crashing through the pantry. In a few me-ments she was alongside, her few passengers released, the pilot taken on board the Queen, and the guard and negroes left with the boar at the mouth of Black river. Among the pas-sengers was one of Holmes' Brigadiers, who escaped unknown.

Here Colonel Ellet first heard of the er-Here Colonel Ellet first heard of the erec-tion of a battery at Gordon's Landing, near the mouth of Little Red river, eighty miles from the Mississippi. With a desire to test the truth of the report, and perhaps with a notion of feeling its strength, and either taking or running by it, he steamed on all night and next day. On Saturday evening, an bour after dark, while turning a point just bebour after dark, while turning a point just be-low, a shot whistled over the Queen; the little tender dropped back, while the ram loaded up in a minute; a shell illumined the deck; another minute and a second burst forward of another minute and a second burst forward of her bow. A shot from the Patrot 20 pounder, and a third shell from the battery. "Back her," says Colonel Ellet. Finding that they had an advantage over him in range and knowledge of position, he was anxious to get out of the danger and wait until daylight.

The most exciting event happened here, which served to show the narrowness of the escape of the Era and her forlors erew. They had been laid alongside the Indianola but bad been laid alongside the Indianola but a few hours, when a smoke was seen coming round the bend below, and presently the steamer Webb, with three of the largest transports astern, passed round the point. They halted, evidently taken aback.

A shot from the monster columbiad of the guaboat 800n put them to flight, and they dis appeared at a rapid rate. A little coal was put on board the Ers, and provisions, adious were said and mutual benfores invested more the said and mutual benisons invoked upon the Era going towards Warrenton, and the Indianois towards Red River. nated in a different result, have drawn forth the highest praise.

The impunity with which any gunbost can run up and down by the batteries between Vicksburg and Port Hudson, must prove a serious annoyance to the enemy. In fact, it gives us the control of the river below. Not a pound of meat, nor a bag of corn, henceforth, can be transported to either place by the river, which has hitherto been their greatest dependence. The Webb will, no doubt, be employed to try and sink such of our boats as venture below; for this reason, our stameers should cruise in couples, lest any powerful ram should be extemporized with which to siok any single vessel. It is hoped that Admiral Porter will see in time the tramsucous advantage he possesses; how he can make his boots in value rather than the tramsucous and how he can aware the river by a combination of remandation of remandation of remandation and remandation of remand and how he can awoop the river by a combina-tion of rams and goudcats.

The House, by a vote of 97 against 45, concurred in the report of the Conference Committee on disagreeing with the vote of the two Houses on the bill to indemnify the President and others for suspending the writ of habeas NEW YORK, March 4.

The Hersld's money article says it is be-lieved the effect of tax on dealings in gold and the policy of the Secretary of Tressury will, for the present, tend to check speculation and drive speculators to a less expensive field.

Both Houses passed the amendment to the tax hill rendering shoulding world all learn tax bill rendering absolutely void all loans over per on gold.
The following dispatch appears in the Springneld (Mass.) Republican of yesterday:

Beaufort, S. C., Feb. 22.—We are daily expecting to march—I suspect, towards Savannah, and that way to Charleston, as we are at present trying to drive the rebels from their earthvorks with gunboats.

Yesterday, the Forty-seventh New York, with the assistance of gunboats, took Fort McAllister and about one and a half miles of rifle-pits. The Forty-seventh lost 115 men. NEW YORK, March 4.

Washington specials say the President has received dispatches announcing the capture of Fort McAlister, at the mouth of the Ogeechee river, near Savannah, by iron-clads. The provision for the organization of African troops was stricken from the engineer bill be fore it passed the Senate.

Important developments, says the Herald's dispatch, in regard to frauds in the Interior Department, are promised soon after the ad ournment of Congress. WASHINGTON, March 3. There was a report current here last week of a severe engagement and repulse at Vicksburg, and it is ascertained to have been revived in distant cities. The Government is not even aware that there has been a general engagement in that quarter.

New York, March 4. A Hilton Head letter of the 27th says the groops were then under orders to embark and the next steamer will probably bring intelli-gence of an attack on Charleston. Gen. Stevenson has been restored to his PITTSBURG, March 4.
